RURAL SOLONS INSIST CITIES MATCH RELIEF

Stand Presents Big Problem to Officials of Municipalities

DECLARE THEIR FUNDS EXHAUSTED

Subcommittee Completes Redraft of Temporary Measure

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Jan. 19.—Rural members of the Ohio house of representatives insisted today that the big cities spend their own money for relief if they are to receive state grants.

Their stand, asserted as a subcommittee completed a redraft of the $5,000,000 temporary relief bill, presented a big problem to officials of the municipalities, who contend the legislature should render financial assistance immediately to cope with impending crises affecting the indigent.

No Funds Available
The city officials say they have no funds available for matching state relief grants, dollar for dollar, as required by the bill.

The measure provides for distribution of the $5,000,000 on a basis of need. This arrangement would assure the large cities a big portion of state aid, while numerous rural counties might not receive any.

Speaker William McCulloch sounded out the sentiment of rural members and said he doubted that the house would pass a relief bill allocating funds on a basis of need unless matching was required.

Chairman R. K. Shaw (R., Madison) of the house welfare committee which took up the new relief bill for hearings immediately, said he believed that if matching was required, the cities would be assured some means of raising local funds for the purpose.

Two Bills Prepared
He said he understood the bill which he had prepared two days which would enable the cities to accomplish this, but did not know what revenue sources would be tapped.

The subcommittee restored to the new bill a clause providing for pro-rata distribution of relief expenditures by the state and cities. This provision was omitted from the original measure. The Republicans said the measure was too expensive and that they understood the auditor, Joseph T. Ferguson, a Democrat, was using them to build up a political machine.

Meanwhile the administration was seriously considering whether to permit the hard-pressed local governments to receive state grants without matching.

City officials said it would take time to raise matching money, while the state funds were needed quickly. Gov. John W. Bricker said he believed that "something satisfactory" could be worked out and that the administration might not insist on matching in the immediate future.

Would Require Matching
He indicated, however, that the administration would require matching in a two-year relief program.

JAPS AROUSED BY NAVY DRIVE

Deplores Plan "In View Of Our Policy of Non-Aggression"

(By Associated Press)
TOKYO, Jan. 19.—Japan is gravely concerned by United States naval expansion plans, the naval office spokesman declared today, and fears establishment of airplane and submarine bases in the Pacific would be but advance preparation for "long distance attack." "Fortification of Guam (1,500 miles from Japan) would be like placing a gun against the gate of a neighbor," said the spokesman. Rear Admiral Shozaburo Kanazawa.

Establishment of bases at Midway and Wake Islands, he continued, would surround "our unfettered mandate islands," fortification of Guam "in the middle of the mandates," would seem an unnecessary way to treat Japan "in view of our policy of non-attack and non-aggression."

Mandates Unfortified
He emphasized that these mandates—the south sea islands held by Germany before the war—were unfortified and under present international agreements could not be fortified.

For this reason, the spokesman said, "Guam would have a real strategic value if fortified," although Japan's objection to expansion in the Pacific was "moral rather than legal" since no treaties exist to prevent it.

"From the experts' point of view, establishment of plane and submarine bases in the Pacific would be but advance preparation for 'long distance attack.'"

Pals Are Parted. So Tiny Tot Sends Letter To Heaven

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 19.—At the postoffice here last night a postal inspector opened a letter addressed:

"To God. In heaven. Up in the sky."

Written in a childish hand, the letter read: "Dear God: When I go upstairs, please let me see Floydie, Bobby."

Summed up, it dealt with the devotion of one little "pal" for another.

Floyd, 4, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Higstrom. He died a week ago. Bobby, 6, his champion, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Lewis, neighbors of the Higstroms.

Floyd begged that his crossed eyes be cured so other children would not tease him. An operation was arranged but the boy died. Health records show, under the anesthesia.

A pastor and his parents explained to Bobby that Floyd was "going to see God" and Bobby wrote and mailed the letter.

URGES TAXATION ON ALL INCOME

F. D. R. Asks Congress to Levy On Government Salaries

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President Roosevelt urged congress today to make all private income from all government salaries and all future government securities subject to the general income tax laws of the federal and state governments.

Federal tax officials have estimated that federal revenue would increase, as a result, as much as $300,000,000 annually. State governments also would benefit by large revenue increases from reciprocal authority given them to tax federal salaries and bonds.

In a special message, Mr. Roosevelt also advised congress that recent supreme court decisions had made some state salaries and some state securities subject to taxes. He asked legislation to prevent the person whose income would be taxed retroactively from suffering inequalities.

"Unless the congress passes some legislation dealing with this situation prior to March 15," Mr. Roosevelt said, "I am informed by the secretary of the treasury that he will be obliged to collect back taxes for at least three years upon the employees of many state agencies and upon the security holders of many state corporate instrumentalities, who mistakenly but in good faith believed they were tax exempt. The assessment and collection of these taxes will doubtless in many cases produce great hardship."

"Accordingly, I recommend legislation to correct the existing inequitable situation, and at the same time to make private income from all government salaries hereafter earned and from all government securities hereafter issued subject to the general income tax laws of the nation and of the several states."

DEBT REDUCING PLAN CARRIED OUT BY COUNTY

Various Sub-Divisions Share In Campaign Against Expense

AUDITOR MAKING ANNUAL REPORT

Shows Practically Every Municipality In Economy Campaign

LISBON, Jan. 19.—Substantial decreases in county and sub-division indebtedness are disclosed in the annual debt report now being compiled by County Auditor John Irwin's office.

The county's indebtedness was cut from a Dec. 31, 1937, total of $376,702 to $294,000 at the end of 1938 in spite of a note issue of $109,800 during the past year for relief purposes. The report discloses redemption of $192,300 in notes and bonds during 1938. The figures do not include subdivision obligations.

Clip Debt Burden
Cities clipped thousands of dollars from their indebtedness during the past year and the total would have been greater but for new issues authorized during the year. East Liverpool's debt as of Dec. 31, 1937, was $855,970. The report lists $797,256 outstanding as of Dec. 31, 1938, including a $52,300 bond issue passed in 1938 for street improvement purposes. Redeemed obligations in 1938 aggregated $111,014.

Salem's debt at the end of 1937 was $509,805.36. Redemption of $95,619.35 in bonds and notes during 1938 reduced the current amount outstanding to $414,276.01. The city issued no new bonds or notes during the past year.

Wellsville's municipal debt dropped from $275,400 to $248,150 with the retirement of $27,250 in bonds during 1938. No new obligations were incurred by this city in the past year.

New Issues In Palestine
East Palestine redeemed $62,088.41 in 1938, cutting its debt from $105,818.41 to $104,730. Two new bond issues totaling $51,000 prevented a greater differential. The issues involved were $36,000 in refunding and $25,000 in sewage disposal bonds.

Roads accounted for $41,300 of the county's current outstanding obligations; bridges and culverts, $3,600; court house and jail, $12,000; poor relief, on notes issued in anticipation of public utilities excise tax collections, $109,800; and poor relief, incurred under other emergency provisions, $128,100.

State Patrolman R. H. Opped said a truck operated by Merle Burt, 20, of Columbiana, hit the rear of the machine when Baker attempted to turn into a farm lane. Mrs. Baker was treated by a Canfield physician.

No one was injured, state patrolmen said, when automobiles driven by Joseph Woodward, 39, of Columbiana, and Rebecca Burson, also of Columbiana, collided on Route 14, midway between Columbiana and Washingtonville at 6 p. m. yesterday. Icey pavement was blamed for the crash.

AAA Aid Lauds FARM PROGRAM

Administration Representative Speaks At Institute

"Look before you leap" was the advice given 800 rural residents of Salem and vicinity by Ralph H. Moyer of Washington, D. C., representative of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, at the afternoon session of the annual Farmers' Institute at the Memorial building Wednesday.

Speaking on the subject, "Progress of the AAA and Its Historical Background," Moyer told his audience to study the present Triple-A program carefully and think it over seriously before considering any other plan.

Voluntary Action
"They tell you the farmer is losing his birthright," Moyer declared, "but his action under the AAA is absolutely voluntary."

Moyer labeled the AAA as a truly democratic measure and explained how it permits the farmers, through township and county committees, to administer its authority.

"The act recognizes the American farmer," he declared, explaining that farmers must vote on placing quotas on crops and that a two-thirds majority must favor a quota before it can be enforced.

Moyer traced the history of agriculture, its development in the United States and the subsequent development of agricultural equipment which opened up millions of acres for settlement.

OHIO'S NEXT TWO YEARS

Gov. Bricker is aware, as are alert members of the general assembly, that the next two years will constitute a turning point in Ohio government.

Under the Davey administration, state government sank to a level so low that confidence was destroyed. Under the Bricker administration, confidence either will be restored, or tolerance of the existing system will be exhausted.

Gov. Bricker has shown in his inaugural address and message to the general assembly that he understands this situation. He has submitted a set of principles and a list of specific recommendations to improve state government.

In the main, they call for a more aggressive and far-sighted legislative policy to be developed in co-operation with executive leadership. Ohio residents are to be encouraged to make the most of their opportunities by improving the efficiency of their government and then reaping the benefits of improved efficiency in the form of wider business opportunities. Gov. Bricker believes the way to save free government in the United States is to make it work so well no one will think of abandoning it.

He asks for no extending powers, no unusual authority, and no unusual personal position in the reformation of state government. His duty ends, as he sees it, with the making of suggestions and recommendations. It is the legislature's duty to determine their wisdom.

This puts responsibility for good government exactly where it belongs—on the people's elected representatives. If Ohioans have been dissatisfied, if they have thought they were losing ability to run the affairs of their state, if they have considered proposals for making over the general assembly, they have had themselves to blame.

They have been getting as good government as they deserved to get when they were neglecting it. They can get better government in the future if they want it by upholding the hands of the men who want to give it to them. That is why the next two years will be a turning point in Ohio political history. Either government will be appreciably improved or, lacking support for improvement, it must fall under the weight of its own ineptitude.

PASS THE GRAVY

While the new governor of Texas, reminding of a promise to pay $30 a month to old folks, was taking office Tuesday, Washington was studying President Roosevelt's plea for liberalization of the federal social security program.

It's all part of the same picture. When social security was put into politics, it automatically became certain that social security would become a political asset, just like pensions for war veterans, this country's first flyer in social security.

A lot of Republicans carried favor last fall by promising bigger and better social security. A lot of Democrats, tied down to the relatively safe and sane social security act, were miserable because they could not match such promises.

One and all, officeholders are subject to the law that it's good politics to promise voters the moon. The only restraint imposed on them comes from two sources: their consciences, and voters' skepticism. Otherwise, they're willing to promise to throw in the sun and a few planets for good measure.

It's being argued in connection with the federal social security program that before it's spread any thinner it had better be improved where it's already in effect. That has not deterred the President from holding out hopes of greater coverage. It has been argued in connection with state something-for-nothing plans that as soon as one of them works then it will be time to try another one. That has not deterred the new governor of Texas from promising $30 a month.

THE ART OF ANGER

Italian World war veterans returning medals bestowed on them by France is one of the latest examples of the art of anger in a world sizzling under the hot poker of hatred.

It's a burning insult to the French, who in turn will try to think up an equally good way to "spit in the face" of the Italians. No purpose other than anger will be served, but anger seems almost to have become a purpose in these troubled times.

Totalitarian governments are particularly adept at promoting wrath, due to the efficiency of their propaganda organizations. A vital part of their plan of operation is to stir up popular feeling against a scapegoat, preferably one outside the national boundaries.

Popular governments aren't blameless, though in their case anger is not so likely to be an emotion played on by propagandists as an organism plays some thunderous composition. Rather, it is a process of spontaneous bickering—of being endlessly on the look-out for real and fancied insults and retaliating in kind.

There is a bull market for bigger and better terms of nastiness with which to revile the other fellow. He is a red, or a reactionary, as the case may be; they both sting when slapped on a tender skin. The idea seems to be that by promoting an endless squabble on earth some purpose will be served. Perhaps some purpose will be served. "Anger," Shakespeare observed, "is like a full-hot horse, who being allowed his way, self-mettle tires him." One day soon men may quit being angry for no better reason than their own weariness from thinking up fresh excuses.

LIVE GAME

A little puzzlement—a good deal, in fact—is permissible about national defense. It's one of those things that can be stretched into almost any shape to suit the purpose.

So it's not unpatriotic to note that the U. S. navy, key to this country's national defense, is working on congress for a more than ordinary interesting privilege in the interests of national defense.

The navy wants the right to dispose of its own ships when they get too old to fill any further purpose in national defense plans. And what does the navy want the ships for?

Why, to shoot at them, of course. It's the only chance the navy has to bring down live game. Somehow it seems only right that navy gunners should have the privilege of blowing up a ship sometime, even if it has to be one of the navy's own.

An eventful and exciting day is presaged from the extremely lively planetary configurations. There are signs of sudden and drastic activities, threatening to turn things upside down generally, and with no mild reactions. Good fortune, new achievements, promotion or dramatic situations are in sight, with elders or strangers probably figuring in the excitement and upheaval. It may be that the undercurrents may be psychological or subtle, but they are distinctly evolutionary.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of surprising and exciting developments, with matters assuming unusual or drastic force, with dramatic and thrilling situations as well as quite unpredictable. There are factors of the psychological or subtle, and strangers as well as elders figure vitally. Watch for radical change, promotion, creative fulfillments and good luck.

A child born on this day will be original, inventive, practical as well as subtle, shrewd, inclining toward strategem and politics or other brilliant career. It may be mystically inclined and of fine emotional expression.

SEEK COTTON, WHEAT HELP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Administration leaders indicated today the United States might have to adopt economic measures to win international cooperation on a program designed to help cotton and wheat producers.

A proposal that the principal producing nations meet in an international conference to work out such a program was advanced yesterday by Secretary Wallace after a White House visit with President Roosevelt.

Such a program, the secretary suggested, might provide an "equitable division" of the world markets and elimination of such trade practices as price-cutting and dumping.

Back of Wallace's proposal was a broad hint, farm officials said, that unless other countries joined in a cooperative effort, the United States might take steps to enable American cotton exporters to meet foreign trade prices.

Existence of a record supply of 50,400,000 bales of cotton, or almost twice as much as is normally consumed in a year, has depressed prices. Half of this supply is American cotton.

There were suggestions that the United States might adopt one of several measures to regain exports. It could subsidize exports as it is doing in the case of wheat, or it could release some of the loan cotton.

This latter action, officials said, would tend to lower American prices and make it easier for exporters to make sales.

Treatments Recommended For Curing "Pesky" Colds

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Whether you can prevent a cold or head off once it has begun is a question that probably never will be settled. The advocates of one form of treatment or the other point to their successes, but the skeptics say that if, for some reason, they do not have a cold after the treatment nobody knows whether it was the treatment that stopped it or whether they were not going to have a cold anyway.

For what they are worth, however, let us examine the plans: 1. Vaccines.—The most reliable statistics are those from corporations such as the New York Edison Company, which inoculated 1,000 of its employees and found that 60 per cent reported freedom from colds. They have continued to do this year after year. The Curtiss Publishing Company, of Philadelphia, inoculates all its employees with vaccines and reports the incidence of colds much reduced.

A variant of the use of vaccines by injections in the arm is to spray the vaccines in the nose. The theory is that the immunity against colds is local in the cells of the nose rather than in the body cells and blood generally. A large number of good results have been reported from this treatment.

2. Alkalization of the body. The old, old belief that an acid condition of the body predisposes to colds gained some scientific support from the researches of Dr. Volney S. Cheney, and Dr. Smiley and Dr. Maughan of Cornell.

A practical way of overcoming acidosis in this season of colds is as follows: At the first sign of "cold" or influenza, all food is stopped but plenty of cool, pure water is given throughout the course of the disease. Food in an inflamed alimentary canal is worse than useless, will not digest and taxes the flagging heart in an effort to get rid of it. No one will starve or need food for a few days.

3. Grapefruit Juice. The juice of from five to 15 grapefruit is given daily, divided into portions every four hours or oftener. In between the juice portions, not with them, sodium bicarbonate is given, a teaspoonful in a glass of water, then a quarter teaspoonful every four hours or oftener until symptoms are practically gone.

Orange juice and lemon juice may be used instead of grapefruit, but are not so satisfactory. Orange juice is sweet and tends to disturb the victim's digestion; lemon juice is too sour to be used in quantities. Grapefruit juice alone will achieve results, but the soda hastens alkalinity. Citrus fruits taste acid, but citric acid makes the system alkaline. Grapefruit juice and soda will usually cure an ordinary cold in from 36 to 48 hours, relieve bronchitis, often prevent or mitigate pneumonia.

In influenza grapefruit juice and water attend to all the elimination necessary in a fasting patient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. H. P.: "I would like some information on skin diseases and the itch. What precautions to take and what to do about it? Can those germs live in school books? How long? Would a summer vacation of three or four months kill them if the books weren't opened? Is there a certain stage of the itch when it can be caught from someone or is it contracted at all stages?"

Answer: The cause of itch is the scabies mite. It burrows by choice into the tender skin between the fingers. If the person is cleanly, it may stop here. Otherwise, it goes all over the body. It can be spread from person to person at any stage. It probably never dies off spontaneously. Sulphur ointment rubbed on the itchy spots is the cure. I do not know whether it has ever been determined how long the mite can live outside the body, but as a precaution, if you put the school books in the hot oven for an hour, they will be killed.

Fredric March and Joan Bennett in a scene from the mystery-adventure, "Trade Winds," showing at the State theater tonight through Saturday.

No dramatic picture ever to reach the screen has equalled in the variety of its far-flung scenic backgrounds as Walter Wanger's "Trade Winds," which comes to the State theater Friday to show through Saturday.

Fredric March and Joan Bennett are seen in the starring roles.

This thrilling and yet light-hearted screenplay tells the story of a detective chase that leads half way around the world, and authentic scenes are shown in the seven different countries in which portions of the action take place. These were filmed by Director Tay Garnett, who made a long trip aboard his yacht "Athens" for the purpose of insuring a truly correct background for the story.

Beginning in San Francisco, when Miss Bennett flees after having apparently killed a man, the action shifts to Honolulu, where she pauses long enough to buy a fake passport and have her hair dyed black.

With Detectives March and Ralph Bellamy in close pursuit, Miss Bennett escapes to Kobe, Japan, and shortly afterward proceeds to the Laccadive Islands, off the coast of India, the story shifts back to San Francisco, where a startling climax brings the picture to a close. Concluding at the State tonight is "Charlie Chan in Honolulu," Showing at the Grand Friday and Saturday is the Gene Autry-Smithley Burnette musical western "Western Jamboree."

Texas Lawmakers
Ready to Fight On
O'Daniel Tax Plan

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 19.—Amazed Texas lawmakers were arrayed today for a bitter fight over a proposed transactions levy which some termed more drastic than any sales tax in the nation.
The sweeping plan for financing old age pensions was suggested yesterday by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel. If enacted it would be the first such tax in the United States.

A survey of the legislators indicated lines would be formed similar to those of former battles over the sales tax, rejected by previous legislators.
O'Daniel's proposals included:
1. Submission to the people of an amendment to the constitution which would guarantee all persons over 65 years of age an income of $30 a month, this guarantee to be in cooperation with the federal government and the state's portion to be limited to $15.
2. Submission in the same amendment of a 1.6 per cent transaction
tax.
3. Abolition of the state ad valorem
tax.

O'Daniel submitted drafts of the amendment and an enabling bill to make the amendment effective.
The constitutional amendment and the bill would pay pensions to persons in need but "need" would be defined as not having an income of $30 a month.
O'Daniel suggested the following exceptions:
Transactions involving charitable institutions.
Salaries, wages and professional fees.
First sale of producer of all agricultural and livestock products.
Street car passenger fares up to 10 cents and street sales of newspapers.

RURAL SOLONS HIT BIG CITIES

to be prepared later. Meanwhile, the municipalities and counties would find time to raise local money.

One source of matching funds was indicated when the governor said the policy of abolishing earmarking of tax revenues might be extended to the local governments. This step would release, for relief, funds now obligated to other local governmental functions.

The senate adjourned until Monday evening and planned to give the relief bill first consideration upon its return, provided the house has passed it.

The Republican senators went home after taking another slap at Carl G. Wahl, state director of public works.

They introduced a bill which would strip Wahl of his authority over the statehouse and grounds and place it in the governor.

Frank E. Whittemore, Republican majority leader, said it appeared Wahl had been exercising arbitrary power over the statehouse employees by reducing the staff to a skeleton force.

Sen. Fred Myers (R., Lucas) said Wahl had discharged numerous veteran employees for apparently no reason.

No Funds Says Wahl
The public works director, however, said he had been compelled to give 40 employees in Columbus "payless vacations" until Feb. 1 because the legislature cut more than $16,000 from his budget.

"I didn't want to do it, but I had to," he said, explaining he did not have funds sufficient to pay them for the last half of January.

The Republicans planned to pass the bill Monday and send it to the house. They intended to act on it late yesterday but did not have the votes because several cohorts were absent.

AAA AID LAUDS FARM PROGRAM

Administration Representative Speaks At Institute

acres of farm lands and in turn increased the amount of production. He said there are 450 million acres of crop land in the United States, 50 million of these badly eroded, another 50 million severely damaged, 100 million with top soil gone, 180 million slightly eroded and 115 million with very little erosion.

"It will be necessary in coming years to stop future erosion and repair the damage already done," he said.

Explains Foreign Phases

The AAA representative explained how foreign demand before and after the war had affected prices, creating a fictitious market which vanished when foreign countries turned to their own agricultural development and could no longer borrow American money to buy American products.

The let-down in foreign demand was responsible for the crash and depression of 1929-30-31-32, he said.

The original AAA, passed by congress in the spring of 1933, was designed to control the output. For 10 years previous to its passage, prices had been down and there had been a surplus of crops, Moyer pointed out.

He added that after the act was passed, prices went up until 1936 when the original act was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court.

A surplus of crops again commenced to grow until the establishment of the present Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Moyer declared.

He cited the aim of the AAA is to present a simple, clear cut program to preserve the fertility of the soil, to prevent a burdensome surplus and to establish an ever-normal output.

Moyer said that this year the AAA will receive corn and wheat to take care of a surplus market and hopes to cut down acreage on these products to prevent increasing the surplus.

10,000 PLANES ASKED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The first official outline of President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 national defense program gave congress a broad new intimation today that 10,200 army planes remain a long range administration objective.

Detailing Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations, Major Gen. Henry H. Arnold proposed to the house military committee a new 6,000-plane limit on the army air corps, but made it clear this referred only to fighting planes.

Rep. May (D-Ky.), the committee chairman, introduced such a bill yesterday.

On the basis Arnold outlined, almost as many training and other semi-official aircraft will be required in carrying forward into the second and third years the initial increase of a "minimum" of 3,000 planes which Mr. Roosevelt recommended.

Arnold, smiling, white-haired air corps chief, estimated yesterday the American aircraft industry could more than triple its present output to 12,000 planes in three years—a production figure which the administration has heard, Germany already has attained.

Only about $170,000,000 of the $300,000,000 Mr. Roosevelt asked for aircraft would be used for new planes, Arnold said. Nearly 1,600 of the 3,000 would be combat types.

He termed the show the best in the last eight years and said it was far ahead of that of 1938. He said more than 1,000 buyers viewed the goods.

Quakers Face East Palestine, Youngstown East This Week

SALEM CAGERS SEEK 5TH WIN FRIDAY NIGHT

Meet Columbiana County Rival In 7th Game Of Season

An engagement with an ever-threatening Columbiana county rival and an important sectional contest are on tap this weekend for Coach Herb Brown's Salem High Quakers, who strengthened their 1938-39 basketball record last week with victories over Alliance and Youngstown Rayen.

The Quakers will face East Palestine in the local gym tomorrow night, while on Saturday night Brown's charges will invade Youngstown for a sectional battle with Harley Little's Youngstown East.

The Quakers will be after their fifth victory in their seventh game of the season against East Palestine tomorrow night. The contest will start at 8:30 following a preliminary game between Salem and East Palestine reserve teams at 7:30. Roy Mills of Youngstown and John Gaber of Alliance will officiate the varsity game.

The Quakers reserves will be attempting to get back into the victory column after suffering their first defeat of the season at Youngstown last night. The Salem team had won six straight games before losing to Rayen reserves.

Coach Frank Bryant, who was forced to rebuild his entire varsity team this season due to the loss of five regulars through graduation last year, will send a "green" but scrappy East Palestine quintet against the Quakers.

Bryant is expected to start Bryan McCall and Kenneth Hunsdon at forwards, Don Bervendorf at center and the Scully brothers, Joe and Bill, at guards. Dick Harris, who has been used as a utility player, will probably break into action as a substitute forward or guard.

East Palestine has won three of its five games to date, defeating Salemville, 25-15; Rochester, Pa., 29-22 and Wellsville 31-27. The Bulldogs have lost to Columbiana, 25-23, and Minerva, 23-20.

Youngstown East, the Quakers' Saturday night opponent, has played only three games to date, winning one and losing two. East's lone victory was scored last week over Newton Falls, 30-26. The Youngstown team's defeats have been handed them by Campbell Memorial, 30-25, and Ursuline, 35-24. The Quakers' Saturday night game will start at 8:30. Reserve teams from the two schools will meet in a preliminary contest starting at 7:15. Hugh McPhee and Ely Morgan of Youngstown will referee the varsity game.

DEMPSEY GIVEN NEIL MEMORIAL

Awarded Medal as Symbol of Man Who Did Most For Boxing

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The story of a friendship that started in a Saratoga Springs fight camp 13 years ago was told anew last night in a Manhattan dining room when Jack Dempsey stood up and received the Eddie Neil medal, memorial to the Associated Press sports writer and war correspondent, Dempsey's dearest friend among the writers.

The award was for Dempsey, symbol of his work as the man who had done most for boxing in 1938. James J. Walker, mayor of New York in the day days when Dempsey was young and heavyweight champion of the world, was there. So was Gen. Hugh Johnson. So were nearly a hundred working newspapermen. For most of them, when they stood up and drank a toast to his memory, Eddie Neil, killed in Spain on assignment a year ago, was there too.

Dempsey, speaking in the high, thin voice that never fails to surprise, talked of Neil as the first man he met in 1926 when he was preparing for his first match with Gene Tunney. "I liked him right off," said Jack. "We were pals from then on. You fellows have done me a great honor. This is a very happy moment. I am happy and proud to receive the medal—but I am happier that the memory of my good pal, Eddie Neil."

He was one of the squarest men I ever knew," Dempsey continued. "I owe a lot to newspapermen; they have always been my friends. Of them all, I loved and admired Eddie Neil most."

Alan Gould, former sports editor of the Associated Press and present assistant to the general manager, pointed out, "it is fitting that this award go to Jack Dempsey. There was no essential difference between the two, Dempsey and Neil. Both were hard fighters, good losers and straight shooters."

All of them spoke of Neil, but none more feelingly than the fight writers did as they filed out of the dining room. The dinner was for Dempsey, but to the writers, who had worked and traveled and played with Eddie in a hundred fight camps and the press corps of ball parks and stadia, the dinner was for Eddie Neil.

SCORING ERROR REVEALS FREAK TIE CAGE GAME

Toledo - Heidelberg Contest Ends In 48-48 Deadlock

(By Associated Press) Out of the welter of Ohio collegiate basketball comes a "tie" game, despite rules to the contrary. Heidelberg's inspired Student Princes, playing the home court at Tiffin, battled the surprised University of Toledo Rockets last night to what the official box score showed as a 48-48 tie.

Confusion contributed to the paradox. The scorebook recorded a 48 to 47 victory for Toledo at the end of the second half. The crowd filed from the gym. Players retired to their dressing rooms.

Then game officials discovered that the Heidelberg—under the rules, the official—score book carried a box score in which each quintet was credited with 48 markers.

Investigation disclosed that Shellhouse, Heidelberg guard, received credit in the official box for making good three out of five free throws. However, the accompanying running score, recorded in the same book, showed Shellhouse had taken but four gift shots and collected only two of them.

Yet the rules of the game stipulate that the home school's box score is official, without reference to a running score.

Four of five unofficial score books of newspaper men agreed with the scorebook's 48-to-47 win for the Toledo aggregation.

Clarence W. "Doc" Spears, Toledo athletic director, declared after the fluke was discovered that his team could meet Heidelberg to decide the Ohio conference battle to night (Thursday) only because of the Rockets' crowded schedule.

Coach Ted Turney of Heidelberg indicated the Student Princes would not engage in a "play-off" tonight.

Heidelberg college officials said the issue might be decided in a post-season contest.

The most flabbergasted cager of all was Willard Swihart, Toledo center, who presumably had meshed the deciding point with a charity toss in the final seconds of play.

The Princes held keen-eyed Chuck Chuckovits, Toledo's nationally famed scorer, to 14 points. In short, they not only staged an upset—they made history.

Elsewhere on the Buckeye cage front:

Capital university, surging forward in conference play, downed Kenyon, 47 to 39. Ohio university bagged its third Buckeye conference triumph with a 40 to 28 win over Miami university. In another Buckeye loop tilt, Ohio Wesleyan drubbed the Dayton Flyers, 40 to 35.

Akron's Zippers ran hter victory string to eight with a 49 to 34 triumph over Penn of Cleveland. John Carroll of Cleveland, invading Pennsylvania, fell before Duquesne university, 52 to 33. And Davis and Elkins took the measure of Youngstown college 51 to 36.

Toledo De Sales breezed to a 79 to 42 victory over St. Mary's (Mich.). Giffin of Van Wert edged out of Tri-State of Indiana, 30 to 29.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Various Spots

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Holy Cross wants Texas Christian as well as Tennessee. Texas Christian would like to start flirting with Notre Dame; Duke thinks another good eastern or midwestern team would be just what the doctor ordered for its schedule and Florida is getting ready to branch out in a big way.... The Broadway columns are telling Alice Marble, who is canyaring at the Waldorf, to stick to her tennis.... Joe Gould admits he and Jimmy Braddock dropped 15 grand each in their restaurant flop. That's an odd one. Braddock quitting the ring to go into the cafe business, then quitting the same in order to eat.

Manager Lefty O'Doul won't be in the party when his San Francisco battery candidates go to Boyes Springs, Cal. He'll put them on their honor to observe training rules. And he once played for John McGraw, too.... Coast critics say Sammy Baugh, football's famous pitcher, can't chuck 'em any faster or straighter than Doyle Nave.... Paul Wanner is predicting Pittsburgh and Cincinnati will fight it out for third place this year. The old Pirate spirit, eh? You bugs might stump John Kieran and the other "Information Please."

We're not going around carrying a torch for Tennessee, but if you think that football team was hot last year, just wait till October. Major Biff Jones of Nebraska says the Vols have the four best tackles in the country. Then add one of the five leading coaches in the business and you have what it takes. It's too bad the Vols don't take on a more representative schedule.... Pedro Montanez has lost only one fight in seven years of campaigning—that to Lou Ambers.

It didn't come out in the announcement, but they're telling it around Broadway that when Jess Willard starts touring for the Dempsey liquor interests part of his duties will be to lecture on temperance.... Old Grover Cleveland Alexander has been booked for personal appearances at the flea circus in Prof. Hubert's museum. Jack Johnson was the latest ex-cel-b to appear there.... Looks like Sammy Sneed, the red hot boy of 1938, has gone the way of the Smiths, the Burkes and other top notchers and skidded into one of those slumps that hit star tournament golfers every now and then.... Look for some fireworks in the lightweight division on or about Feb. 17.

HEMSLEY ISN'T SURE OF SELF

Playboy Catcher Again May Be Trouble For Tribe Bosses

DELRAY BEACH, Fla., Jan. 19.—Rollie Hemsley, the Cleveland Indians' playboy-catcher, isn't so sure he can stay out of trouble with club officials this year.

"You can't tell," he said today. "I'll probably get along all right with them, but I'd rather make no predictions."

Frequent tiffs have been costly to Hemsley, who never has regarded training rules as sacred. One of Oscar Vitt's first duties as manager of the Indians last spring was to send Rollie home and impose a $1,000 fine when the player showed up with a black eye and other evidences of wanderings beyond bounds.

When Rogers Hornsby managed the St. Louis Browns he had several run-ins with Hemsley but never could keep him under control.

Once the season got under

Patty Leads

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 19.—Patty Berg of Minneapolis entered the final 18-hole round of the Augusta Titleis' golf tournament today with a six-stroke lead over her nearest rival.

The national champion and defending title-holder carded an 83 yesterday and a 54-hole total of 239. Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta was in second place with a 245 total.

way last year, however, Hemsley settled down to have one of his best years. He batted .296 in 66 games.

Hemsley is valuable to the Indians because of his ability to handle Young Bob Feller. The catcher believes Feller will have a successful season this year.

As far as Hemsley is concerned there is no comparison between Feller and Fred Hutchinson, the sensational Pacific Coast league speed ball pitcher, who brought a whopping price from the Detroit Tigers.

"Hutchinson ain't as good," Rollie commented. "He hasn't showed it. The boy's coming up, but Bob's already up."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MY LOVE IS NEW by IRIS BENNETT

CHAPTER XXI

Ruth Darby was washing vegetables as Constance came in the kitchen the following morning and sat at the white table and cupped her chin in her hand.

"Can't you do that later, Mother? I've something to tell you, something I'm afraid you aren't going to like very much."

"Of course, dear. What is it?" She dried her hands and pulled out a painted white chair and sat down. Her eyes did not waver from the grave young face opposite her.

Constance touched the hand that wore the heavy gold wedding band.

"I'm not going to marry Terry. I'm going to marry Gordon Keith." And gripped her mother's hand. "Please try to understand. I love him. Don't tell me I don't know what I'm doing because I've thought about it for so long...."

Ruth nodded. "And you've been miserable. I know. Somehow mothers always know. Constance. But have you realized what marriage to this man means and how different it will be from marriage with a boy like Terry? He's a man of the world and you aren't the first girl in his life and you probably won't be the last. He's been married before and his marriage failed. You must consider all those things."

"All I can think of this morning is that I'm going to hurt Terry. I'm going to the camp today and tell him. I've got to tell him! Is that all you have to say?"

"This is one time when I can't advise you." Her advice would be futile. She taught them all you knew but you could not tell them whom to marry because they would not listen and in the end they always listened to the music in their own hearts. Her own heart ached now with fear....

"Marriage is a gamble even with men you think you know well. I just want you to be sure very sure that you really love this man and aren't just blinded by his good looks and reputation. I only saw him once and he is good looking and fascinating."

"I love him. That's all I know. I love him and I want to be with him. I can't stay away from him."

Sleepy-eyed, Rosalind appeared in the doorway.

Quietly her mother said, "Constance has just been telling me she is going to marry Gordon Keith, Rosalind."

Constance said, "I don't want anyone to know just yet except Terry. I'm going to the camp today and tell him."

Rosalind's dark eyes sprang awake angrily. "I didn't make a mistake when I married Van. I loved him. I still do. But you're making a mistake you'll pay for the rest of your life. You're all wrong! Why can't you see it? You're crazy, Constance. You don't know what you're doing."

Looking from the dark-haired girl to the fair-haired one, Ruth thought, "If she is making a mistake, she won't know until it's too late. Gordon Keith has come between Terry and her. Will Terry, whom she has loved for so long, come between her and Gordon when they are married?"

"I'm only trying to do what I think is right," Constance said in a tired voice. "I'm only trying to be honest with you and with myself. It hasn't been easy to know what to do."

She was wearing a yellow dress and a small knitted yellow hat when she came downstairs that afternoon feeling that her heart was like a weight dragging her down. Wasn't love supposed to make you happy? Loving Terry had made her happy. Wouldn't loving Gordon ever make her happy or would it always be like a storm raging within her?

Her mother looked at her gravely.

"Are you sure?...."

"I'm sure I'm doing the honest thing by telling Terry."

"You're not happy." Gordon Keith's words and his kisses last night didn't make you happy, child. Marriage is more than tender words and passion and romance in the moonlight. Marriage is sharing little or much, understanding, being faithful, giving and taking....

"I'll be happy when it's over, I think." Her lips brushed her mother's face. "I think you understand. I'm sorry for getting myself into this mess when Rosalind's affairs are as they are. You've been through enough."

"Be very sure you aren't hurting yourself—most."

A storm that had been brooding angrily broke just as Constance reached Mike Flaherty's camp. In a flash of lightning she saw Donna Flaherty's trim little figure go from window to window. The shaggy black and white dog, soaked to the hide, hurried to the shelter of the porch, and crouched in the corner. The happy shrieks of the little boys came from the river.

Terry's cabin was close. Leaving the car, she hurried over the soggy ground to the porch, opened the door, and went in. But she stood quietly on the threshold of the room, looking at her photograph on the desk. It was soiled from handling. "I was another girl then," she thought, pulling the yellow hat slowly from her hair. "I wish I were that girl again." How to tell him.... When he came in, she knew she would be weak and aching.

But he did not come in for quite some time. She could not be quiet and sit and wait. The high brown heels of the brown and white sport shoes walked back and forth. This room.... She would always remember it. There was a desk and a studio couch and several deep shabby chairs and many books. Terry's brown riding boots, very muddy, were in the corner. His sweater was thrown over a chair and his pipe was a 'marker' in a thick book half read.

He came in just as lightning illuminated the room. His brown face and hair were wet and his dark trousers and white sweater were clinging to him. Seeing her, his eyes lighted up the way they always did when he saw her after weeks and sometimes months of separation.

"Constance! I saw the car and knew it must be you!" He came to her and put his arms around her. "Why didn't you let me know you were coming?" And kissed her and laughed and drew away. "I'll get you wet! I couldn't get those little devils out of the river. They thought it was 'great fun to swim in the rain.'"

"How are you, Terry?" Stupid thing to ask. He looked strong and happy.

"I'm great. Will you wait until I get into some dry clothes? Won't be a minute."

Standing by the window, she waited. Her forehead was moist and hot. Nothing had ever been as difficult as this. Nothing He would hate her with the intensity with which he loved her. Oh, Terry, in there humming, you don't know! But in a minute you will know....

And all at once she thought she would prefer never seeing Gordon again rather than hurting Terry like this. The sudden sharp thought made her heart jerk. "But I can't marry Terry when I'm in love with Gordon. That's not fair. I've got to see this through."

Wearing dark trousers and a yellow sports shirt that accentuated his tanned face, he came out of the bedroom, got his pipe from the thick book, filled it, and lighted it. "We're going to have a long talk before feeding time," he said. "Sit down here beside me and tell me all about yourself. Tell me about Rosalind. Mother wrote me. Awfully tough on your mother—what happened." Again lightning illuminated the room. "Not frightened, are you? You never used to be."

Her voice was soft but strained. "Terry, you sit down. I—I want to stand." And when he sat on the studio couch and crossed his long, thin legs and put his pipe between his teeth, she came quite close to him.

He frowned. "What's wrong?... Don't try to kid me. There is something wrong." She was standing so still and her eyes were frightened and she spoke as if it were a labor to speak. He nodded. "Bad news? What is it? Tell me." She took a deep, tired breath. "Terry, I'm going to marry Gordon Keith." And paused, thinking, "I can't go on with it! I can't!" because the light died in Terry's eyes and his jaw sharpened and an expression she hoped never to see again in anyone's eyes came to his. Jerking up her head because that seemed to relieve the tightness in her throat, she said softly, "I love him and he loves me. Last night he asked me to marry him in October. He hasn't been making love to me all these weeks you've been up here. I haven't seen him. I wouldn't go near him. I—I left his job with him because I thought it was something that would pass and I hoped and prayed that it would. But it didn't. I...."

"Wait!" he said. Getting up, he went to the window and stood for a long time with his back to her. His silence and the beating rain and the thunder and lightning were maddening. Trembling, her heart feeling that it would burst, she waited for him to speak.

At last he faced her. "There's a lot I could say, Constance," he said evenly. "But I don't know that it would help any."

"Terry, I know I've hurt you terribly."

"Think of yourself. Think of your life with him." He was thinking of her. Not until later, not until she was gone and he realized that she would never come again, would he think of himself and his hurt and his loss. But now he was thinking of her and of a man who had lost the respect of his friends and who had come running like a man who had committed a crime to hide in a town that continued to feed his vanity. Now he could think of nothing except Constance whom he loved tenderly and passionately living out her life with Gordon Keith. Should he tell her about him? Or should he let her go to him, loving him blindly? It would not dissuade her to tell her. She would defend him as she had always defended the people she loved. No good would come of telling her of Gordon's past and his marriage....

Constance said, "I loved you, Terry. I loved you with all my heart and I didn't want anything to come between us. I was the happiest girl alive. I still love you. I always shall."

His smile was grim. "If I didn't know you so well, I'd tell you that you never loved me. But you did. I know that."

"Do you hate me?"

"I don't now. But I probably shall."

"This is going to be very embarrassing for you."

"Don't worry about that." He spoke sharply because he had tight reins on his emotions. "Is there anything more to say?"

She raised her eyes. "No, I guess not. Suddenly we're strangers who have nothing to say to each other." She reached for her hat on the desk. "Terry, I hope...."

His hand gripped the pipe. "Let's not have any post-mortems, please, or any sad farewells. Don't wish me luck or tell me you hope I'll find another girl to take your place." Another girl to take her place!

"Don't feel sorry for me. I don't want regrets over me to spoil anything for you."

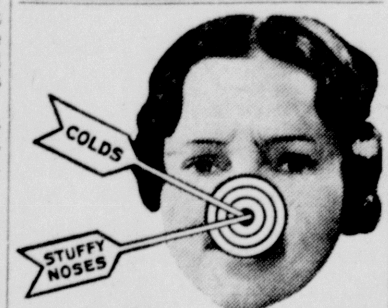

Her eyes filled. "You do hate me." But he shook his head. "I am sorry for you, Constance. Much sorer for you than for myself."

She went to the door and put her hand on the knob.

"You tell me not to have any regrets. But I shall. And, Terry, thank you for not being angry and accusing. I don't suppose we can be friends after this...."

"If we can't be more than that, then we can't be anything!"
